The Princess Tarakanof.

That entertaining though not always trustworthy old gossip, Wruxall, whose souvenirs of eighteenth century life have much helpe I I. Muhlbach in her so-called historical nevels, is eloquent over the fate of the Princess Tarakanof, the alleged danghter of the Etapress Elizabeth, of Russia, and a victim of the laste of Catharine II. The story is a sad one, and strikingly illustrative of the lawlessness of crowned Lends until the French Revolution taught them that their pre pratives ought to be questioned. Still, Wraxall was wrong, as has lately been, discovered, in supposing the person in question to be what she pretended. Elizabeth really had a danghter, whose claims to the imperal necession were dangerous to Catharine, but she was safely immured in a convent where she lived many years, and die a

Meanwhile, in the year 1773, a woman onng and beautiful, who assumed the name of the imprisoned Princess and vasons other titles, visited the differena car stals of Europe, and finally went to Italy, where she set up a little court and endeavored to seeme the aid of Turkey, Poland and Sweden in enforcing her alleged

Catherine, with whom the end was everything and the means a matter of indiference, ordered Alexis Orlof, who commanded her Mediterranenn fleet, to seeme the pretender at all hazards. The fair dventuress was then living at Leghorn Through an agent, Orlof flattered her and promised her assistance until he had exher to grant a personal terview. He made love to her with consummate art, made her his mis-tress, and finally, with the countynuee of the English Minister, Admiral Greig, the English naval commander, induced her to ceept an invitation to a banquet on shir This being done, the fleet at once set sail, and the hapless creature was carried to Russia. assembled at their army this morning, A Man Blowshis Head off with a Pistol.

From the St. Louis Republican, 23d. A German named Ferdinand Guthmann ommitted suicide yesterday afternoon by placing the muzzle of a pistol, loaded with shot, to his month, and firing it. The force of the explosion blew away the entire face and a portion of the frontal bone. The jaw-bone was fructured into four pieces, which were found scattered in different parts of the room. The tragic occurrence took place within two doors the First-street station, in the rear of 171 Carondelet avenue, in a room occupied by deceased and family. The cause of su cide, as developed at the eoroner's inquest was habitual intemperance. Deceased was in the habit of going on a spree occu sionally and spending the money his chil-Iren had earned as employes in a cotton factory, On Saturday night he was intox icated as usual, and wanted more mone from his wife. She refused to give hin any, when he beat her and kept up a dis turbance all night. On yesterday morn ing he spent two dollars for beer and e gars, and was as far from being sober as ever. He kept up his revels, and in the afternoon he was heard to exclaim, "Stop: ny luck!" und immediately afterwards th port of a pistol was heard. The neigh ors rushed into the room and found the infortunate man alone, weltering on the loor in a pool of blood. He had made four attempts to take his life previously verdict was rendered in a cordance with the above statement of the facts. Decased was thirty-six years old, and was the father of nine children.

PUGILISTIC.

Allen and Gallagber Fall to Agree on Another Match,

From the St. Louis Democrat, August 23. Pugilistic circles were greatly excited vesterday over the prospect of another match between Allen and Gallagher. Galagher's backers had proposed another eting between the late combatants, to take place when and where the friends of Allen should elect. In response, Carroll and Thurston had published a proposal for a meeting within ten days, near Cincinnati, for $1,000 or $5,000 a side.

In order to come to a definite arrangement, a meeting between the backers was held yesterday afternoon at Gallagher's Sherman Thurston represented Allen, and John Looney was the spokes-mun for Gallagher. There was a good deal of blowing and badgering, as a mat-ter of course. The published proposul on he part of Allen was rejected by however, declared that Gallaghe vould meet Allen the following day, or on Monday, the principals to be attended by only two men, the party to go out in earriages and fight it out, without the pres nee of witnesses, for $1,000 or $5,000 aside. The proposition was declined by Thurston, and there the matter rests. s not probable that Allen and Gallagher will meet again—at least, not before the affair between McCoole and Allen is terninated

The split among the Cincinnat Quakers has given their meetinghouse to be made a beer-saloon, and their gravevard a beer-garden.

Over Four Hundred Lives Lost

Harrowing Scenes.

Ly steamer Deutschland, which arrived t New York on Saturday morning, we have the following particulars of the terride neeident near Dresden, en the 5th inst., brief mention of which was made by ciegraph:

Early on Monday morning last intellience was received have that at a short istance from this city upward of 400 men had fallen victims to a terrible colliery ac ident. At first it was hoped that the nmbers were considerably but it is now nearly sertain that the figures will prove even greater, 120 or more being absent from the roll-call on Tues

The following are the details as exact as t is possible to urrive at them during the onsternation caused by this sad calamity. n Monday morning at five o'clock block like that of an earthquake alarmed he neighborhood of Potschappel, a pretty village somewhat resembling Matlock, in Derbyshire, situated about five miles from here among the bills beyond Planen, and it was immediately surmised that an explosion had occurred in one of the great mines belonging to Baron Two men were blown out of the shaft by the force of the explosion, but in such fragments as to be altogether unrec-The gas ignited the coal, and

He has ince recovered, and states that on first escending he distinctly heard eries for help, but this is generally considered very usprobable. Up to Tuesday night only bodies were recovered, ment to cinders, others singed black with the explosion, the scene around being past description. The crowds of poor women, some of them having lost three or four of their family, standing in the wildest grief round the pit, hoping against hope that their loved ones might still be rescued alive, the heartbreaking sobs of the children, and the sterner grief of the men, made the scene agonizing in the ex-

On Wednesday morning I went to the pot and found that altogether fifty bodies had been recovered and were placed in a neighboring shed for recognition. Er oute thither I met cart after eart carryng away one or two eoflins and two large vans loaded with empty shells for the reeption of the bodies as they were brought to bank I saw, altogether, thirty corpses and their state defies description. ong shapeless black mass, which the miners told you was one of their com-rades, but in which it was difficult to eoguizo the slightest likeness to humany-here one had his head blown off, there ne his arm, one lay on his bed of leaves with his face split open, unother as though nuch bruised by the coal falling on him. The sad work of recognition was proreeded with with as much dispatch as possible, and the bodies were then placed in neir shells and their names written on the

A shriek in you corner would tell of a mother recognizing her son, or a wife her nusband lying among the long row of the insightly corpses, while the plaintive wai throughout told of a far wider spread grief. I conversed with one of the miners who had just come up, and he said the lahor of recovery must be very slow (about one body every three hours), as the sides of the mine had fallen in, and they had to work the coal away. In most eases they found the men lying under the sides of the nine, some buried in eoal, others on whom the coal had fallen, and then burnt One was found near the mouth of np. farthest shaft, hardly injured at all, and as he luy in the shed he formed a striking contrast to his companions, being extremely white and well dressed. The appearance of the few recovered seems to ndiente that most of them must have een killed from suffocation, being much wollen in the face, and nearly all bleedny considerably at the nose, only a few (at present) being much burnt with the Two men work at a time at each cud, the two shafts being quite 300 yards, separated, out they ceased work at the end nearest the illage on Tuesday. Each man as he de ends is usked whether he is perfectly villing to go down, and at first Mass was held for those who were to descend, at the top of the pit. The depth is three hundred and thirty French metres, and the olliery is situated at the top of a consider erable elevation, commanding a splendid iew of Dresden and the valley of the Elbe. The trains daily pour hundreds out at the hitherto quiet little station, and the pit and its environs are guarded by a company of soldiers and police agents. The King it is said, has given 500 thalers about £75) toward the relief of the poor. t seems very improvident, but the minors here only use the open lamp, so that they are altogether unprotected from the effects of gas, &e. They also descend when searching for the bodies smoking cigars, but I heard the doctors had told them to do so on account of the horrible smell

Among the many distressing cases one ears of one nlone I will mention-that of a poor girl traveling in the same earriage with a friend of mine, who had lost her father, two brothers, and a step-brother, her whole family being swept off in one day. One should be thankful this accilent happened when it did. if accident there must needs have been, for the great Fogelwese, the annual feast of the Saxons, held at Dresden night and day for one had attracted many others who would otherwise have met the same sad fate of their fellows. There is great difficulty in obtaining detaits, but this is unavoidable, owing to the rigor with which the soldiers are bound to keep the public back in order not to interfere with the progress of the search. I was fortunate enough to be there early, and the soldiers passed me through, which enabled me to take a minute view of everything; but the scene is one so sad, so heartrending, so agonizing, with the plain outspoken anguish of the bereaved around you, that he must be a hard-hearted man indeed who can malicious spirit of revenge toward his sister-in-law, ex-Queen Isabella of Spain.

END OF THE BROKERS' STRIKE.

The Government Victorious—Clarke, Dodge & Co. Yielding—The Brokers Paying Up—A. Case Before Judge Jones—A Jest Case in Cooperstown.

From the New York Sun. The Sun need hardly repeat that several months ago Mr. E. D. Webster levied the tax of 1-21 of 1 per cent, upon the capital and income of all brokers doing business as bankers in his district. This netion was like the explosion of a bombshell in Wall and Broad streets. It set the bro kers running to and fro among their legal and financial friends. After much chaffag, some of the brokers paid the tax under protest rather than be subjected to lawsnits which were threatened. Others, hewever, persistently refused, and an appeal was taken to Washington. After a careful review of the law and the facts, emmissioner Delano sustained his sub ordinate's action, and the brokers were again called upon to pay up. One firm, Clarke, Dodge & Co., still refused, and applied to the Commissioner and to the arts here for an injunction restraining the Internal Revenue officers of the Thirty-second district from assessing or collect ig the tax upon their monetary transa The assessment made on this firm amounted to $13,769 16 for the fifteen onths between Dec. 1, 1867, and March 1869, to which was added 50 per cent. enalty for non-payment, making the total am $20,653; 71.

This sum was too large to lose so easily larke, Dodge & Co. appeared before the Commissioner by counsel, but did not de-ny that they had done business a bankers as well as brokers, but protested that under the law and enstom of previous Assessors they were not liable to pay this tax, having already paid tax as brokers. In answer to a question, they said that in November, 1868, the gross amount of money borrowed by them was one million even handred and ninety-two thousand dollars, of which sum one million five undred thousand dollars was used by them in their capacity as bankers. They also received large sums "on call," and ninety thousand dollars as margins on stock transactions during the mont & erest was allowed on two hundred and two thousand dellars deposits of this vhole amount, and all of it was liable to drawn by chacks. It was therefore eary proved that the firm were doing usiness in the double capacity of bank-rs and brokers. Therefore the Assessor evied upon their borrowed empital of one one million five hundred thousand and their deposits of two hundred and two housand dollars.

Commissioner Delano, while upholding the Assessor's interpretation of the law, has at length referred the whole subject back to the officers of the district, who inve discretionary power to remit the pen-Perceiving the turn which affairs ave taken, the bankers and brokers are ery generally complying with the law, all 80 per cent. of their number having aid up their tax, and the rest are soon to e compelled to do so. #### Mob Anticipated. From the Paducah Herald several days past our police have been hearing rumors through the negroes, of an intended mob for the purpose of aking out of our jail and hanging two white men confined there, in retaliation for the hanging of Baldey. Last night about 11 o'clock we were on Broadway with a party of friends, when the rumo was brought to us that the mob was ever then organizing to attack the jail. was a negro ball going on in the old Her ald office building where was gathered bout seventy-five negroes, and there the mob was organizing. We proceeded im-mediately out to the juil and there found Mayor Sauner, Marshal Wilcox and several others, ull heavily armed. Message came every few minutes of new signs of impending riot, and by gestion from the Mayor, a party of two was sent out to reernit, and in a brief half hour we had recruited fifteen or twenty men all armed to the teeth. A heavy guard was inside of the jail and everything in readiness for the attack. Marshal Wilcox had stopped and searched negro for arms in front of the courthouse, about 11 o'elock, but finding no arms had turned him loose. The negro went forthwith to Jeff. ### THE CUBANS.

AN INTERVIEW WITH GENERAL QUESADA'S BROTHER.

The Strength and Position of the Insurgents.

Special to the Cincinnati Commercial.

NEW YORK, August 23, 1869. I had a conversation to-day with Col. nesada, brother of the Cuban General, who arrived here yesterday, direct from the camp of Gen. Cespedes. He brought important papers from Cespedes, which were forwarded to Washington. He says Cespedes and the members of the Cuban overnment have been at Savanilla since June 12. The place was selected for its convenience of location, and because it is onsidered impregnable. A small army ould detend it against a large force. The aban Covernment has a foundery in the erras, near by, which i now turning out first-class cannon, of six, ten, sixteen and twenty-four pounds caliber. There is a well appointed printing establishment there, at which are printed the official bulletins of the government, and a politial paper called the Cubano Libro

There are from nine thousand to ten thousand troops in town, and the immediate neighborhood. The men have good arms and abundance of ammunition, but are much in need of clothing and shoes.

Colonel Quesada says: "There are samps of our brave troops which ladies muot visit, because the men are so seantiv dressed; and, also, there are near Savaiilla, full twenty-five Cuban ladies, who are as nuked as some of our men. They are there with their children, preferring to share every privation in the field to remaining in their elegant town-houses, away from their husbands, fathers, sons and brothers, and be subjected to the asults and oppression of the officers and men of the army of Spain. They have plenty to eat, and money also, but there is great want of clothing, since our men, s well as their families, have, in most in stances, had to the their homes with the gle snit on their backs.

There are from 10,000 to 45,000 men who are regularly supplied with modern arms, mostly from the United States. hese belong to our regular army. here are about 500 men in separate comdifferently armed, with shot-guns, revolvers and machetas—a sort of knife, 'e-

The Prospect of the Growing Crop. From the Palucah Herald.

EDDTVILLE, August 18, 1869. Col. Noble: Having much leisure the last few weeks, I have endeavored to gather from different correspondents all the inormation I could relative to the growing crop of tobacco; and thinking it might be nteresting to parties engaged in the trade (I have not been myself for the lack of means), I would give you such informaon as I have received, which you can onblish if you wish.

In the first place, I would speak of the crops of Lyon, Caldwell and Crittenden unties, from all parts of which counties l have seen farmers and others nearly every day. I have not yet conversed with the first one who does not represent the obaceo crop as being the poorest one for many years-not one-third of the quantity planted has yet been topped. Another third of the crop may be ready for topping within the next three weeks. As for the balance, if it is ever topped it will have to be in October and November next—by

From all the information I can gather not over three-fourths of the number o acres planted last year has been set this summer, and making due allowance for seasons, etc., these three counties will not make more than half the quuantity they did last year, and much of that must be o' very poor quality. From Missouri I learn that the erop is forty or fifty per cent. more than it was last season, when the crop was a very nall one, and that much injured by the

the crop by frenching, etc. From the Western district of Tennessee and Kentucky Purchase, the crop, it is thought, will be better than last year's. though within the last week we have claints from that quarter as to the crops eing cut short by drought, etc.

In the Clarksville district, and the Green river country, the crop is looked upon as inevitably cut short one-third or more in quantity, while the quality must he inferior, on account of late planting of much of the crop.

Of the Virginia erop I have but little information; but so far it is said the erop.

The wheat erop in our immediate vicinity is a much better one than last year's.

Bontwell.

Between Judge Dent, ex-detective Wood and the press, the Secretary of the Treasury is having a rough time of it. Boutwell, says the Boston Post, is silent -silent in the midst of the hubbuh that is being kicked up about his cars. He is always silent when there is some justification for his speaking, and loquacious when there is nothing to say. There was never such talking against time as be displayed during the impeachment trial, and rarely such an undue proportion of nothing uttered. But here now are Judge Dent and ex-letective Wood putting some direct questions to hien, and his "judicial mind" evolves no answer. The Judge shows kim no mercy. He buffets him first to the right and then to the left, rallies and counters him, and leaves him evidently out-of wind and without a leg to stand upon. As for the detactive, his is a very ugly charge of bribery, and it is made in blont, straightforward speech that indicates no apprehension of the consequences. I saw him at the theatre sitting between his daughter and Madame Francois Hugo. I had seen him, with fiery eye and tremblung nostril, applaud the grand scenes of the drama. I had seen the tears in his eyes at the passages which spoke of the country rulned. This enthusiasm and emotion, which one would so little expect from his appear. one would so little expect from his appearance, were a complete revelation, and the surest index to the extreme joy that the exile filt at being once more among Parision sur-roundings. What would it be when he should once more shake a frieudly hand, and again hear a voice once so familiar speak to him of Paris, of France, of the boulevards, of all who remember him, and even of those who had ai-

"Sardou and I watched for him after the performance, but missed him, and we separated, agreeing to go and call on him in the morning. So, at eight o'clock the next day we rang at No. 61 Rue Joseph II., a street quite deserted, which ends nowhere and borders on the country; all the city tolese sease upon the threshold of this solitude, and it is easy to comprehend how bitter this silence, so sweet to lovers and poets, must be to the heart of a boulevard frequenter. Rochefort saw us from the window, he recognized us, uttered a joyful exclamation and threw himself into our arms. The long embrace, vigorous, furious, arms. The long embrace, vigorous, furious, said more than any possible words of welcome; he embraced not ns, but the fatherland lost to him for so many months, refound for a few hours only; it was the regrets and suffering of a year, compensated for by the joy and hope of a minute. After culbusiasm had passed, as I looked at him with a visible emotion, as I looked at him with a visible emotion, Rechefort said:

"'You are surprised at my paleness, my thin face and hollow eyes? Look at my head, at has snowed on it; and to think that when I left Paris I had not a single white halr."
"Then repressing a sigh, 'Let us go out,' continued by,' these walls weigh upon me like a prison. Excuse me for a moment, and I will retoin you." will rejoin you. "We used the moment to look about us

The house was a plain one, of two stories, with a basement and a little bit of garden. In Paris it would have been worth ten thou, and france at Brussels not two thousand—say eight thou sand francs' worth of happiness the less. "The evidence of the exquisite taste and room. Fine pictures, elegant familiare, choice books, beautiful china, were everywhere; but nothing scenned in its proper place, in its proper light, or appropriate surroundings; all seemed merely provisional and temporary. Our friend remarked the impression produced, and said, with a painful sunite, 'I understand your thoughts, but what can I do? I am here like a bird on a twig. Shall I be here to-morrow? Who can tell? "Certanely,' replied he. 'From May, 1868, to May, 1869, I received one hundred and sixty thousand traces, and I get still some eight thousand frames per month.'

"So you are rich."

" Just above not being poor. You do not comprehend the position of an exile reputed wealthy. He is bound to assist his brothers in misfortune, nor only of his own country, but of Switzerland, Italy, &c. I not only work for myself, but for the whole band of

J. CROWDUS.

The Victim of the Marion County Regulators,

Who He Was, What He Was, and How He was Assassinated.

The following letter appears in the exington Statesman of this morning-LEBANON, KY., August 1s.

Editor Kentucky Statesman. In your notice of the murder of Jame rowdus by the self-styled regulators of of government stores. Marion county, you make several errors which may not be improper for me to orrect. James Crowdus was a native of Kenucky, and lived the whole of his life with our paolic streets, under the contract as it in five miles of the tree on which he was hung. He was, prior to the war, one of the largest stock-traders in central Kentucky, and was reported to be very wealthy. He certainly owned as many as 2 500 acres of land, and not fewer than 30 laves, but was always improvident, and was generally in debt. considered, however, that, in 1860, his word was good for as much money as he desired. At that time no man stood fairer in Marion county than he; nor was there a more useful citizen in Kentucky. I knew him intimately from 1847 to the time of his death, and knew all of his surroundings. I venture to say there is not a prosperous man now within four miles of his old resi dence who does not owe his prosperity to the coroner's jury rendered a verdict of the murdered man. He was open-hearted and generous to a fault, and spent several fortunes for the benefit of his neighbors.

Crowd is had been married three times It is stated that General Larache, the first to a Miss Taylor, by whom he had Haytien Minister at Washington, who has seven or eight, children; secondly to a Miss Government, is negotiating locede, as and lastly to a Miss Cabell, of Casey county, by whom he had seven childred. He inherited a large estate About twelve thousand tuns of from his father also. There is no man freight were sent on Saturday, and it is here who even suspected that he became rich dishonestly.

After the war broke out he was a subgovernment contractor, and dealt largely in mules and horses. Like most contract-ors he certainly had an easy conscience in dealing with the government was sued by his creditors for a large amount and was compelled to sacrifice al his property. He was then virtually a bankrupt. In 1868 he filed a petition in bankruptey and obtained a discharge. At the time of his death he was living on a rented farm, and was laboring hard to support himself and family, and was, as all of his neighbors believe, living hon-

In 1-63-4-5-6 a band of horse thieves were committing continual thefts in east-ern Marion county—Crowdus' part of the county. Crowdus had two very rascally sons who were, perhaps, properly believed to belong to that band. One of these sons was run off by Lynch in 1-66, and is now a resident of Texas the other one was killed by a chum, William Groose, who was afterwards huug by a mobat Lebanon.
